NORFOLK ISLAND

Compliments of the season to you all from Denise and I.

We hope, after the festive season that everyone is revitalised and prepared for the push through the Business end of this Rotary year.

January has seen the return of our 2017-18 RIYE students and the departure of our 2018/19 students. We wish them well and to experience a lifetime change, spending time in another Country speaking a different language and being hosted by different families and meeting up making new friends.

Once again D9910 is well represented at the National Science & Technology Forum which commenced on the 15th January and will run until the 27th January 2018. AUT Auckland is the venue for this wonderful Rotary experience.

It is always pleasing to have participants sponsored by your Club attend and talk to you about the experience and how it may impact on their future career/s.

DGE Jerry Norman and Fay departed on Thursday the 11th for the International Assembly in San Diego. We extend our best wishes for a successful time and experience.

Currently we have Pascal Temmar from the Noumea Ducos Boulari Rotary Club cycling around New Zealand with the aim of raising funds for their Water and food sustainability programme. Pascal arrived on Boxing day and for a trial run left Auckland on the 28th. December and cycled to Cape Reinga where he commenced his journey.

He suffered a couple of setbacks while up North first breaking his i-phone then the back-up phone failed as well. Also the GPS would not work. Pascal has since replaced the two phones and the GPS is now functioning properly.

Currently Pascal is cycling through to Wellington.

To follow progress on the GPS go to: www.rotarytournz.com

You can catch up on the daily travels and photos on: www.facebook.com/rotarytournz2018

Foundation Giving:

Now is the time to consider your Rotary Foundation Giving.

Do not leave it too late to send (preferably by end of March). This way we ensure the giving gets into this year's figures.

Remember also individuals can join the Centurion membership by paying NZD100.

President-Elects

President-Elects have started their preparation for the 2018-19 year with the first President-Elect Training sessions held in Whangarei and Auckland recently.

There was a lot of information and ideas to absorb and some good networking amongst clubs.

The next learning session to help President-Elects with their planning will be 3 – 4 March 2018, at the South Pacific President-Elect (SPPETS) multi-district seminar. This is for President-Elects from all the New Zealand Rotary districts and includes the Pacific Island clubs. It will be held at Waipuna Convention Centre, Auckland.

Some comments from last year's participants:

"Drawn kicking and screaming out of my man cave – what an amazing experience"

"I was not aware so much help was available"

"Inspirational with a capital 'I' "

SPPETS gives you a wider view of Rotary, the opportunity to network with a variety of Rotarian colleagues, share and pick up new ideas and hear from some international speakers.

Registration is open now for SPPETS via the link below and numbers are required by 30 January 2018

5 reasons to use Rotary Global Rewards

Who doesn't enjoy saving money, especially when you can give back to a great cause? As many of you know, Rotary Global Rewards is our member benefits program that helps Rotarians spend less while giving back to Rotary. It's a great perk many Rotarians use on a daily basis for both personal and professional purchases.

Check out these reasons why you should take advantage of Rotary Global Rewards in the new year:

1. Save money. Discover discounts on the products and services you value most. Looking to book your next flight or longing for a new dining experience? Global Rewards offers a surplus of deals for all types of products and services, such as discounts on travel, hotels, and vehicle rentals, as well as shopping, gifts, movie and entertainment tickets — and more!

2. Effortlessly give back to Rotary. It doesn't take much to give back to Rotary; literally. By using Rotary Global Rewards, you're constantly saving money or giving back to Rotary. Already planning on making a purchase for something? Check for offers that give a percentage of your purchase to Rotary.

3. Support fellow Rotarian businesses. Support the success of fellow Rotarians and their businesses by using the offers they post. You can also post your own offers for those in the Rotary network. This is a unique way to help other Rotarians looking to make a purchase in your line of work. Create an offer for your own business to enhance our growing portfolio of Rotary Global Rewards.

4. Help your club save money. Planning a training event, club meeting, or social event? Bring a special treat to your next meeting. Rotary Global Rewards has offers for discounts on office supplies, shipping, printing, flowers and gifts.

5. Enjoy easy access. Rotary Global Rewards can now be accessed on any mobile device so it's always right at your fingertips! Download the Rotary Global Rewards app at Apple App Store® or Google Play™.

Start the New Year off right by downloading the Rotary Global Rewards app and save money getting more good work done.

Questions related to a specific offer should be directed to the company making the offer using the contact information in the offer listed. If you're unable to resolve an issue with the company, let us know so we can troubleshoot the problem by selecting the flagged link under Claim Offer.

For the best experience, use a current browser such as Chrome, Firefox, Safari, or Internet Explorer 10 to redeem rewards.

This is your Rotary club: a new approach to keeping members

By Michael Bucca, membership chair of the Rotary Club of Central Ocean – Toms River, New Jersey, USA

Jessica Connors and Club President Michael Della Rocca plant a tree, an example of the kind of projects that can give new members ownership and responsibility.

So many Rotary membership events focus on engagement and retention. It makes sense. For every member that joins Rotary, it seems there's another member walking out the door. Long term engagement and retention are an important part of successfully growing a club for the simple fact that new membership gains can be quickly wiped out by non-engaged members choosing to leave.

The advice being given by membership chairs and leaders is sound: get new members involved right away. Our club has taken this one step further by explaining something important to our new members:

This is your Rotary club!

A Rotary club is chartered by Rotary International, but who ultimately operates it? The membership does! All Rotarians pay the dues that allow the club to function, attend the meetings, and perform the work needed. In a sense, members are partial owners of the club in the way shareholders are of corporations. Rotary club membership can be just like a stock, except the dividends are derived from the active participation of the member!

So now that a new member has joined, how do you help them cash in on their Rotary dividends? They must be given a role that they can take ownership of. Most members of Central Ocean Rotary have a purpose. Many have found their niche that suits their own interests. For example, some are dedicated to an operational function of the club, while others work almost exclusively on community or international service projects.

BYOP

The best method for implementing this is letting a new member commission a service project or fundraiser for your club. This BYOP (bring your own project) approach gives the new member immediate ownership of something important. Your service projects and fundraising committees may have a few ideas for this new member, or simply let the person bring a project to the table. With this method, our club was able to complete nine service projects just in the first half of this Rotary year.

However, if a new member feels they are not ready for this level of responsibility and would rather sit back and observe, you can find another area of the club that they can contribute to and get their feet wet. Let the new member serve as club greeter or guest sergeant at arms to get them involved at a lower level of responsibility and work their way up via a committee or through mentoring.

Don't let your new members slip through the cracks. If you show them that the club belongs to every member, they will stick around for many years to collect dividends of fulfilment that Rotary service can provide!

How we started a new Rotaract Club

By Samuel R. Kern, Rotaract Club of Sewanee, Tennessee, USA

I was walking out of my accounting class this summer when I received a message from the dean of students asking if I would be willing to start a Rotaract club at the university for the fall semester. I knew nothing about Rotaract and very little about Rotary but Dean Gentry assured me he would be our club adviser and provide support, so I accepted. Sewanee does not have a plethora of clubs with the national or international recognition that Rotaract has, and I felt confident that students would be interested.

A week later, I met with Bill Davis, a local Rotarian who has orchestrated the effort to bring Rotaract to the university. Bill and I were determined to create a following for the club, so we spent countless time organizing, reviewing the Rotaract Handbook, and discussing how we were going to make it a successful club. I met with Katie Sneed, the president of the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga Rotaract Club, who graciously gave us advice. Her perspective and support has been crucial.

Initially, I advertised to students through the Activities Fair, to Greek Life organization, and any other student streams we could think of. I explained that Rotaract is an opportunity to create a network of connections and make a difference in the world. Pitching this in a positive light was critical because students will choose to invest their time where they receive the most value back. Therefore, I focused on the prominence and notoriety of Rotary and Rotaract, asking "Would you like to do good and make a difference within our community?" Students at Sewanee want to serve and help the community.

After creating a viable student interest for the club, we held an information meeting and followed the Rotaract Handbook. Twenty-seven students attended our first meeting, and we felt there was enough support to move forward.

At an organization meeting I explained the structure of the club and asked for those interested in leading. Assembling the right leadership team was critical. I created nine positions adding on a Social Media Committee Chair and the Finance Committee Chair. These officers have been instrumental to our club's success. Their efforts have allowed us to grow quickly and mobilize.

Perhaps the most important ingredient has been the support of Rotarians. Bill Davis, John Hill (President of the Monteagle-Sewanee Rotary Club), and Woody Deutsch have given their constant support, organizing the charter ceremony, and attending our meetings. Bill has supported me and been a great mentor throughout this semester. I have learned a lot about leadership, service, and life. He and the other Rotarians have been a great influence upon our Sewanee Rotaract Club.

We have held our charter ceremony, participated in service projects, received guest speakers, and are making an impact upon our community. Ultimately, the Sewanee Rotaract Club is here because of the students who make up the club. They are passionate about "making a difference," and this mission and core value is what unites our club and allows it to succeed.

Ian Riseley Polio

Dear fellow Rotarians,

As we look ahead to 2018, it is time to look ahead as well to the next stage of our work to eradicate polio. When you look at the numbers we've seen over the last few years, it is clear what trajectory we are on. We had 416 cases of polio in 2013, 359 cases in 2014, 74 cases in 2015, 37 cases in 2016 and 17 cases so far in 2017. We are on our way to zero—and 2018 may well be the year we reach it.

It's important to understand that this won't mean our work is over. Rotary is committed to polio eradication until the world is certified polio free. For that to happen, we must be sure beyond any doubt that there is not a single virus left anywhere in the world. Poliovirus is very good at hiding and that is why we put so much effort into surveillance: looking not only for new cases of the disease, but for signs of the virus in waterways and sewage.

Once at least three years have passed from the last time poliovirus is found, an independent committee will certify the world polio-free. Then, and only then, will our work be done. Until then, it's vital that we keep on doing everything we're doing now: all the surveillance, all the immunizations, and all the advocacy work.

In 2016, Rotary helped vaccinate 450 million children, preventing an estimated 650,000 cases of paralysis. It could never have been done without a strong membership, ready and able to do the work. Looking ahead, all of us need to do our part to ensure that Rotary's membership stays strong and ready for any future challenge. Each January, Rotary sees a sharp increase in prospective members reaching out to express their interest in being connected with a Rotary club. These prospective members are screened by Rotary, then assigned to districts to be reviewed and sent to a club via the membership leads program. Yet less than half of the leads we received last year were followed up by districts and only a quarter were assigned to clubs in 2016-17. I ask all of you to ensure that any membership leads you receive are followed up appropriately. If you have any questions about the membership leads program, see Connect to Membership Leads.

In other news, our Rotary Peace Centers Committee, having considered over 550 candidates, has selected the finalists for our 100 Rotary Peace Fellowships. The selected finalists represent citizenship from over 50 countries, and we are delighted to welcome them.

Finally, as some of you start thinking about holiday shopping, I'd like to remind you that Rotary Global Rewards is a wonderful way to get the most for your money; you can find it right in the Rotary Club Locator app on your phone. And for those who need an idea for the Rotarian on their list, why not commemorate the Foundation's Centennial Year with a copy of its history? It's a beautiful way to look back on some of our Foundation's achievements, and be inspired by what is yet to come.

Juliet and I send all of you our warmest wishes for a healthy and happy 2018, full of friends, family, and Rotary service.

Sincerely,

Ian Riseley
Rotary International President, 2017-18

CAMBODIAN ROTARY EXCHANGE STUDENT UPDATES Oct 2017

Tola Scorn

Tola (Sreychom's sister) attended Rangitoto College in 2016. She also completed her final year of high school in 7 months (at Westline School) and was successful in the National Yr 12 exams.

On November 6th she begins her 4-year degree in Travel and Tourism at the Royal University of Phnom Penh. Tola intends to look for part-time work to help support herself while she studies.

Lily LAY

Lily Lay has just completed her year as a Rotary exchange student at Rangitoto College. She was in Yr 12 and studied ESOL, Tourism at Yr 12 and Yr 13, Digital Studies and Yr 12 Sociology. As an exchange student, she has taken part in Challenge Camp and a Marae weekend and she will leave shortly to spend 2 weeks in the South Island with other Rotary exchange students.

Lily will head back to Cambodia after her 17th birthday on December 12th. She will return to live at New Future for Children and in January she too will complete the whole of the Yr 12 final year of high school in 7 months. She intends to start university at the end of 2018 and is keen to study Tourism as well.

CAMBODIAN ROTARY EXCHANGE STUDENT UPDATES Oct 2017

Sreychom SORN

Sreychom attended Rangitoto College in 2015. She returned to Cambodia in December 2015 and went back to living at New Future for Children. In January 2016 she re-enrolled at Westline School, a private high school in Phnom Penh, halfway during the school year to complete her final year of education. Despite only being in Yr 12 for 7 months, Sreychom went on to pass the end of Yr 12 national exams and graduate from High School. This was a major achievement. Less than 40% of students passed this exam and it was the first year that students were not able to buy the answers for the exam. The new Minister for Education had decided to do something about the level of corruption in education. In November 2016, Sreychom began her studies at the Royal University of Phnom Penh studying Travel and Tourism. She studies in both Khmer and in English. She has found the course challenging but manageable because she has had a solid background in tourism here at Rangitoto College.

She completed both Yr 12 and Yr 13 tourism courses concurrently while she was a student here. She is also fluent in English after living in New Zealand for a year. Sreychom has been studying in the evenings and she works 5 days a week. She works at Casa Meridian (pictured left), a condominium on Diamond Island in Phnom Penh. She was chosen for this job because of her excellent English skills as most of the tenants are foreigners. Her job involves problem solving for the tenants.

Sreychom has just begun her second year of study at university.

HISTORY OF THE HOKIANGA HARBOUR

Dr. Jeremy and Ann Gibb delivered a very informative presentation on the history of the Hokianga Harbour.

Jeremy spent 8 years as an oceanographic support technician working around the Antarctic/sub- Antarctic region and subsequently around New Zealand to map ocean currents, sea-bed geography and formation. In the 1970's, Jeremy took on the role of Coastal Scientist with the Ministry of Works and decided to gain tertiary qualifications so that he could put his name to the reports that he was doing all the work for. He then applied to do a Doctorate following which he mapped New Zealand's 18,000km coastline.

In 1987, following the termination of Catchment Boards and the Ministry of Works, Jeremy became a founding Director of the Department of Conservation a role in which he was responsible for the establishment of marine reserves and the protection of marine mammals.

In 1993, Jeremy & Ann formed their coastal management company to provide solutions to coastal problems.

Jeremy has provided consultancy services to the NZ Transport Agency to develop a strategy protect SH12 from Dargaville-Waimamaku-Opononi.

Jeremy recounted the mapping of Hokianga Harbour (defined as a river at that time) by James Herd on the ship "Providence" in 1822.

A signal station was established on South Head in 1838 followed by a pilot's light house at Marns Bay, Omapere to assist the passage of ships removing kauri logs from the region. The first pilot was John Marn who was superseded by his son, John Marn. The signal station and pilots light house operated until the early 1950's at which point traffic on the harbour had declined.

Remnants of the of the signal station and lighthouse remain.

In late 1851/early 1852 the crew of HMS Pandora and HMS Acheron quickly and extensively mapped the Hokianga Harbour and bar. This exercise recorded depths, tidal velocities and sedimentation and identified places to anchor and a transit line to the pilot's light house.

Jeremy described how at around the turn of the century there was a 70-100m wide strip of white sand stretching from south head to Opononi and that it has significantly reduced or disappeared and the extent of coastal erosion due to rising sea levels and coastal realignment.

The effect of building a boat launching ramp and jetty at Omapere in the 1980's on erosion and sand accretion was described.

Presidential message

Ian H.S. Riseley

President 2017-18

December 2017

Seventy-two years ago, the United Nations was founded "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war ... [and] to practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbours." Despite those worthy aspirations, and generations of investment in achieving them, the "scourge of war" is still with us: Last year, more than 102,000 people died in 49 armed conflicts around the world. Some of those conflicts were in their fifth decade or beyond. Terrorism, intolerance, and extremism; the refugee crisis; and environmental degradation are now global challenges.

Collectively, we seem further than ever from achieving the goals that were set with such ambition and optimism in 1945. Yet hope endures, as long as there are people willing to work for a more peaceful future – not only through their governments, but also beside them and beside each other. Today, Rotary is better placed than ever to have a real and lasting impact for peace: through our peace-focused programs, such as Rotary Peace Fellows, and through every area of our service. Water, sanitation, health, education, and economic development are all interrelated and part of the complex interactions that can lead to conflict – or avert it. To best leverage our service in all these areas, and to maximize their impact for peace, it is essential to understand these interactions and plan our service accordingly.

For these reasons, we have scheduled a series of six presidential peacebuilding conferences between February and June in Canada, Lebanon, the UK, Australia, Italy, and the United States. These conferences will focus not on peace but on peacebuilding: We will share ways that we can work to build peace through the service of our Rotary clubs and districts. Five of the one-day conferences will illuminate the connections between peace and another area of focus. The first conference, in Vancouver, B.C., will explore the link between peace and another sphere of great concern to us in Rotary: environmental sustainability. You can view the full schedule and register at www.rotary.org/presidential-conferences.

The goals are simple: to help Rotarians find new ways to advance peace through their service, to learn from experts, and to strengthen our abilities to build peace. It is my hope and belief that these conferences will help us move closer to a more peaceful world, through Rotary: Making a Difference.

Main Speaker Kate Ellingham and Johann Rocha

They spoke about their RYLA experience April 2017

Johann said that RYLA had been an engaging learning experience that pushed him out of his comfort zone. Three things that have stayed with him since:

- Lifestyle inventory assessment - allowed you to look at your strengths and self-defeating behaviours. Knowing who you are is the most important thing in deciding who you will be in the future.
- Business session - group work: Johann's group chose to focus on a realistic, financially viable and positive, legal solution to NZ's housing crisis. They came up with container homes as a community, as an affordable, sustainable solution to this challenge.
- Guest speaker Cam Calkoen who has cerebral palsy. Cam was told that he would be weak and disabled for the rest of his life. Cam decided he is resilient and would not worry about what others think. He kept active while he was young, has been in the NZ Paralympics team, and started a mentorship club for young people with disabilities. Cam's mantra is Dream Big and Achieve More.

Johann said he strives to be a better person, and wants to return the favour to RYLA in future.

Kate found the whole experience very supportive and she has made fantastic friends from RYLA.

Since then, Kate has sailed the Pacific on a 39 foot boat, after convincing her Dad to give up his boat for 6 months. She decided to make this trip happen as a result of RYLA (and maybe those impressive negotiating skills with her Dad!) Kate and her friends took off from Opuia, then Minerva to Vavau, the Jewel of the Pacific. There they joined the Coral Club; Kate says there are three types of sailors - those who have hit coral, those who have hit coral but say they haven't and those who have yet to hit coral.

They sailed to the remote Laus Group of the Eastern Fiji waters, to Fiji and then to Vanuatu where they watched red hot rocks explode into the twilight, and lastly Noumea where they kite surfed every day, before sailing home.

Kate is not sure what is next for her, but she feels well equipped for the next part of journey.

Both Kate and Johann thanked the club for this experience, and shared that it is really important to know where your passions are, and to have a passion for what you do. The Club was appreciative of the open to learning approach of both Kate and Johann, and wish them every success.

Gaynor Larsen—Libraries in the Philippine's

Gaynor is a member of the Orewa Rotary Club and through her friendship with a Filipino teacher in NZ, has developed a program to donate suitable books to Filipino schools and community libraries. The Philippines is an island state in Southeast Asia consisting of about 7,600 islands with a population of 107 million and an area of 300,000 square km. (NZ has 4.7 over 268,000km²)

Many of the books are the left-overs from the Orewa Book Fair, but many are also now arriving from other Clubs and Churches. Books are sorted and packaged for specific delivery to the destination library. Transport costs are significant, due to the parcel weights, and Gaynor is looking for additional sponsors, particularly to contribute towards the postage costs.
